EXPLORE AUSTRALIA WITH KUI PARKS

Welcome back to the latest Nomad News. Time is rushing by and like so many, including ourselves, we are keen to be heading off again in the next few months. With all the that Queensland and NSW have experienced with drought and floods, we are hearing many rumours of folk changing their plans and avoiding these areas. I sincerely hope this is not the case. These towns and communities need our help and support and there is no better way than supporting them through the economic boost the travelling public gives them. We do of course need to remain aware of the challenges many face in these areas, especially where water is a scarcity or roads that may not be in the best condition. So let's get out there and encourage and support these areas.

FINDING A KUI PARK!

Did you know it's so easy to find a Kui Park. Besides the useful Australia Map & Park Finder you can pick up at every park, there are also other ways of finding a Kui Park. Today we look at the Kui website and WikiCamps

Check out www.kuiparks.com.au

The Kui Parks Website has been especially designed to make your travels so much easier, with parks easy to find. All you will need to do is enter your location (town) on the SEARCH function of the HOME page and we will show you all the parks within 200-300km of your location. Why not check out this video to find out more! Click here: Find a Kui Park on kuiparks.com.au

WikiCamps

In conjunction with WikiCamps we have ensured you can find a Kui Park very easily. On the Wiki Camps Map or List Page, all you need to do is type in Kui Parks and a map and list of all our parks can be found. Each park can be clearly identified as a Kui Park on the park page with the Kui Parks name as well as the Kui Parks logo. For more on Wiki Camps
